

SERA Theory and Philosophy of Education Network

Autumn 2021 Research Bulletin

Call for papers

What's the use of Theory and Philosophy of Education?

The SERA Theory and Philosophy of Education Network is pleased to invite submissions for a proposed Autumn 2021 SERA Research Education Bulletin (see <https://www.sera.ac.uk/publications/researching-education-bulletin/>).

Papers will normally be around 1000 words in length and should be written for a wide readership (non-specialists). Papers should offer readers a concise, accessible and informative perspective on their research and how it engages with the question 'What's the use of Theory and Philosophy of Education?', or with theory and philosophy of education more generally. In addition, authors might wish to submit visual media (posters), book reviews, or co-authored pieces. Although some authors may wish to focus on the Scottish context, the themes discussed are likely to take a general (international) perspective. We hope that this bulletin will provide readers with an insight into the diverse theoretical and philosophical research in education being undertaken within Scotland and beyond. We also hope that selected bulletin papers can be further developed into articles for a proposed Special Issue of the Scottish Educational Review.

Please submit a proposal of around 250 words no later than 10th January 2021 to sera.theory.philosophy@gmail.com

If you have any queries feel free to get in touch using the same address. We look forward to hearing from you.
